THE TARIFF BILL.

Several Important Amendments Practically Agreed Upon.

AMERICAN SUGAR PRODUCERS TO BE GIVEN A BOUNTY

To Offset the Reduction of Duty for Which the Bill Provides—A Queer Partnership Will Hereafter Control the Washington Post—Other Washington News.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 4.—The sub-committee of the senate finance committee, having in charge the tariff bill, has practically agreed upon a number of important amendments to be offered in the senate before a vote is taken on the bill. These amendments are to be offered in satisfaction of an agreement reached before the bill was reported to the senate that after election certain concessions would be made to certain sections of the country.

It has been practically agreed to give to sugar producers a bounty equal to the reduction of 50 per cent. in the duty for which the bill provides. This county will be one cent on all sugars which are produced in this country. The committee has practically rejected a proposal to admit free of duty for experimental purposes for a year machinery used in the manufacture of sugar.

The duty on structural iron will probably be reduced from one cent and one mill per pound to eight, or, at the most, nine mills per pound. The duty on lumber will probably be reduced to $1.25.

These amendments will possibly not be announced formally by the committee until they are proposed in the senate. There will be no division in the Republican ranks, and the tariff bill, as amended, will pass the senate January 21.

The Washington Post.

*WASHINGTON, Jan. 4.—Representative Beriah Wilkins, of Ohio, has entered into partnership with Frank Hatton, Arthur's postmaster general, and has purchased the Washington Post from Stilson Hutchins for $140,000, not including the Evening Post. This deal will take Hutchins entirely out of Washington journalism, where he has been a conspicuous figure ever since he came from St. Louis, twelve years ago, and bought the Post.

The partnership of Messrs. Hatton and Wilkins is regarded as an odd one. They are both politicians of note, but they have always belonged to opposite parties. Hatton is a Republican. Haines' friends call him a mugwump, and charge him with having been instrumental in defeating Blaine in 1884 by the order which he issued to prevent postoffice employees from participating in that election. Wilkins is a Democrat, but on the tariff and some other questions he has always considered it his right to act independently. He will not be a member of the next house and will therefore have time to look after the interests of his newspaper.

The old name of the paper will be retained, it is said, and the paper will run on an independent basis with a Republican leaning. Hatton will be editor-in-chief. A. J. Blethen, who at one time owned the Minneapolis Tribune, and at another time the Kansas City Journal, is negotiating for the purchase of the Evening Post, and if he succeeds in getting it will give it a new name and make it strongly Republican.

Joel Barlow's Ashes.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 4.—Charles Burr Todd, author of "Life of Aaron Burr," "Life of Joel Barlow," and other well known works, was at the capital Wednesday in consultation with Senators Hoar, Evarts, Hawley and Platt in relation to the proposition to bring home for burial in this country the ashes of the distinguished author and diplomat, Joel Barlow. The remains of Mr. Barlow were buried at Wilna, Poland. It was near this place he died in 1812 as the result of exposure in the retreat from Moscow with Napoleon Bonaparte.

At the time of his death Mr. Barlow was the accredited representative of this government. Barlow was an intimate friend of Commodore Stephen Decatur, with whom he lived for many years in this city. Commodore Decatur erected a monument for him at Kalorama, near this city.

Arizona and Idaho.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 4.—In the house Mr. Springer introduced a bill providing for an enabling act for the administration of Arizona and Idaho as states. Tuesday after the first Monday in November, 1889, is named for the election of delegates, and the constitutional conventions are to be held in January, 1890. These conventions are to frame constitutions which shall be voted upon by the people on the Tuesday after the first Monday in November, 1890.

Names For the New States.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 4.—Mr. Springer, when the omnibus territorial bill is taken up in the house, will offer an amendment giving the territories the following names: North Dakota; Dakota; South Dakota, Winona New Mexico, Montezuma; Washington, Tacoma.

FELICITY'S SCHOOL FRACAS.

Considerable Interest Manifested in the Case.

BATAVIA, O., Jan. 4.—The state of Ohio against James Jennings for assault and battery upon Thomas Pierce, colored pupil the first of the cases arising from the exclusion of colored pupils from the white schools commenced Wednesday. A jury was soon seated.

The defense opened the ball by claiming that Jennings had been tried and acquitted on this same charge before Mayor Day, of Felicity. The case stands now on this question. If decided against Jennings he will be retried, but before another jury; if the decision is in his favor he goes free.

The case is exciting intense local interest. Several correspondents of southern journals are present.

From the evidence thus far introduced it appears that a great crowd of whites had presented themselves upon the white school grounds on that day in question, and that Jennings and others would take hold of the colored youths as fast as they attempted to enter the school house door and push them back.

Jennings claims that he was tried and acquitted before Mayor Fletcher Day, of Felicity, for this same alleged assault or Perkins. The state claims that Jennings was tried before Day for but one offense, and that there were other assaults committed by Jennings on Perkins. This is the issue in a nutshell.

The prosecuting attorney is now arguing a motion to withdraw from the jury all testimony tending to show a former arrest and acquittal, and upon the disposition of that motion the verdict of the jury largely depends.

INAUGURATED.

The Governors of Both Maine and Massachusetts.

BOSTON, Jan. 4.—Governor Ames, in his annual message, urges speedy action on the resolution passed by last year's legislature providing an amendment to the constitution, forbidding the manufacture and sale of intoxicating liquors as a beverage, in order that it may be submitted to the people at an early date. He earnestly recommends, "as an act of simple justice," the enactment of a law securing municipal suffrage to women.

He says: "Recent political events have confirmed the opinion which I have long held, that if women have sufficient reason to vote they will do so, and become an important factor in the settlement of great questions. If we can trust uneducated men to vote we can with greater safety and far more propriety grant the same power to women, who, as a rule, are as well educated and quite as intelligent as men."

Governor of Maine Inaugurated.

AUGUSTA, Me., Jan. 4.—Governor Burleigh was inaugurated in the presence of the legislature, and delivered his message of which the following is an abstract: The message of Governor Burleigh reports the various institutions of the state in excellent condition, and that the financial condition of the state is one which EDWIN C. BURLEIGH will soon justify a further reduction of taxation.

He recommends that the legislature memorialize congress, asking that representatives in congress and presidential electors be chosen on the second Tuesday of October, beginning with the year 1892.

A MAN WITH TWO HEARTS.

Remarkable Physical Formation of a Negro Puzzles the Doctors.

TRENTON, N. J., Jan. 4.—The Mercer County Medical Society devoted the better part of its session yesterday afternoon to the examination of William King, the colored man who is said to have two hearts. He is about forty-five years of age. The examination proved that he has a divided heart, such as is found in the lower animal kingdom. The heart beats perceptibly on both sides, but the sound is less perceptible on the right than on the left.

He claims to be able to drop his ribs like a set of double-action window blinds, but this was done, it was detected, by his control of the oblique, transverse and rectus muscles. He claims that he can change the locality of his two hearts, but this was pronounced a piece of jugglery, the result of long practice. He caused his hearts, pulse and temple to cease beating for a period of sixty seconds, and the physicians pronounced it a successful effort. King is now in the county jail for being drunk and disorderly. He announces that his mother discovered his double heart when he was six months old.

Oyster Pirates Captured.

BALTIMORE, Jan. 4.—The state schooner Helen Baughman Wednesday started after about forty oyster pirate crafts which were engaged in illegal dredging near Chester river. The whole fleet sought safety in flight except the schooner Robert McAllister, which showed fight. Her crew fired on the state schooner several times, when Capt. Kerr turned the cannon recently borrowed from the Federal government upon the piratical schooner. Three shots were fired when the McAllister struck her colors, and surrendered. Capt. Kerr conveyed his prize to Rock Hall, Kent county. As soon as the state schooner had left the forbidden waters with the McAllister in tow, the other pirate craft returned to their unlawful work, and again began dredging for oysters.

Assassination at a Social.

PARIS, Ill., Jan. 4.—Lester Woods, twenty-two years old, was murdered two miles east of this city Tuesday night. The Sunday school of the district had a social gathering at the school house, and during the exercises a scuffle took place, and Woods was stabbed in the neck, the main artery being severed. Woods fell in his mother's arms and expired. A panic followed, the children jumping out of the windows and crowding through the door. The murderer escaped during the excitement, and was not recognized. A warrant was issued Wednesday morning for a young man named Amburger.

Disastrous Year for Philadelphia.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 4.—The loss to Philadelphia commerce during the past year has been very disastrous both to life and property, eleven vessels, either bound to or from Philadelphia, or owned in this city, having gone to the bottom of the ocean with 113 lives, while nine more were wrecked, but fortunately without loss of life. The property swallowed up with these twenty vessels was valued at $850,000.

Disastrous Year for Philadelphia.

HOT SPRINGS, Ark., Jan. 4.—The chief police arrested Wyatt Sanders and Pleasant Hutchinson, two colored crooks, wanted for holding up a man at Springfield, Mo., and robbing him of $8,000 and other valuables.

A White Cat Caught.

DEFIANCE, O., Jan. 4.—The author of the White Cat letters has been discovered by Prosecutor Winn. He is a prominent man, and will no doubt be indicted by the grand jury Monday.

Hung Himself.

BROOKLYN, Jan. 4.—James McTague, a prisoner at Raymond street jail, committed suicide early this morning by hanging himself from the bars of his cell door. He was twenty-nine years old and was recently arrested on a charge of stealing $100 worth of harness.

New York, Jan. 4.

CONSUL ASTWOOD,

Our Representative at the Island of San Domingo.

REMOVED BY THE GOVERNMENT OF THAT REPUBLIC.

The Cause Was That He Was Connected With a Scheme to Exhibit Christopher Columbus' Bones Throughout the United States for the Public to Gaze Upon at So Much a Peep.

NEW YORK, Jan. 4.—The American public occasionally gets news of the doings of its own government by very roundabout ways.

This time the information comes from San Domingo. It is a month since the news was received there. It gets here by the steamer

George W. Clyde, and is to the effect that H.

C. Astwood, consul general at San Domingo, has been removed. No cause for the removal is mentioned in the government reports to the representatives of San Domingo in this city.

The trouble, however, lay in an exploit of Consul Astwood some six months ago. A man by the name of H. M. Linell arrived in San Domingo about that time, and made inquiries about the burial place of Christopher Columbus. He introduced himself to the prominent people of the republic as a man of wealth, and represented that his interest in the remains of the immortal discoverer of this continent was purely historical. He made himself solid with Consul Astwood, and finally proposed a scheme to the consul, which resulted in the sending of this letter:

"To Señor Figueroa, Minister of the Interior in San Domingo:

"YOUR EXCELLENCY—Mr. H. M. Linell, a citizen of the United States of America, has requested me in my capacity as United States consul to ask the Dominican government whether the bones of the immortal Christopher Columbus, the discoverer of America, and a permit for the exhibition of them, could be obtained from the government?"

"The interest which the people in America take in their history is so intense that the presence of Columbus' remains in the larger cities would create enough curiosity to swell the receipts of the treasury of the Dominican republic to a degree unprecedented in its history.

"Mr. Linell begs to submit the following offer: He guarantees to defray all the expenses for the transportation of the bones, a guard of eight soldiers and four priests.

"He guarantees to defray all the expenses which should arise during the tour of these persons in the United States and also their salaries. He guarantees to remit 50 per cent. of the net receipts to the Dominican government in quarterly payments and guarantees that they should not amount to less than $200,000 a year.

"He guarantees the safe return of the bones after a time of not less than four years. Mr. Linell desires that the church and government authorities state publicly that these are the genuine bones of Columbus, and that exhibition of them shall be permitted for this trip only.

"In submitting this offer to your excellency, I want to direct your excellency's attention to the importance of this offer and its urgency. Yours respectfully,

"H. C. Astwood, United States Consul."

Senator Figueroa courteously declined the proposition. It was done in the formal language of diplomacy and conveyed no reproach. The Dominican public and newspapers were not so considerate. They declared that the proposition to make the bones of Columbus a public exhibition for private gain was disgraceful. If made by private persons it might be overlooked, but when presented officially by the representative of a government of a country like the United States, it was outrageous.

Press and public called for the removal of Consul Astwood, and in no mild language either. It was openly declared that the position of the United States consul was a public scandal. The news of the removal of Consul Astwood by the Washington authorities is regarded by Dominican authorities here as the result of this affair. It is regarded favorably, too, and in fact is the only action that the American government could take.

Struggle With His Wife's Paramour.

BERLIN, Md., Jan. 4.—Thursday last James M. Henry, a wealthy young farmer living near this place, caught his wife in a compromising position in the woods near his house with Edward Bowen, a hardware merchant of Berlin. A fight ensued in which Bowen was getting the best of it, until Henry drew a knife and stabbed his opponent twelve times, inflicting serious if not fatal injuries.

Duluth Coal Heavers Strike.

DULUTH, Minn., Jan. 4.—Nearly the coal dock laborers here and at West Superior have struck against a reduction from $2 to $1.75 a day. Monday a few struck and their wages were restored, but later another reduction was attempted and now there are 300 men out.

Took His Life on New Year's Day.

CHARLESTON, C. S., Jan. 4.—Ben Woods, a white farmer living near Allendale, S. C., on New Year's day pulled off his coat and vest, tied several old axes to his neck with a rope, and jumped into a well head first. The body was found next day.

Letter Box Thieves Sentenced.

CHICAGO, Jan. 4.—Judge Blodgett sentenced Oberkampf and Mack, the two men who have been on trial here for some time past for stealing letters from the street letter boxes, to the penitentiary—Oberkampf's sentence being for five years and Mack's for three.

White Cap Warnings at Troy, Ohio.

TROY, O., Jan. 4.—Wednesday a notice was found at the door of Mrs. T. Michaels, addressed to her son-in-law, Mr. Byket, and notifying the party to change his ways or he would be dealt with according to the laws of the White Caps. This is the first notice the public has had of such an organization in this town.

FRIDAY EVENING, JAN. 4, 1889.

PRESIDENT HUNTINGTON, of the C. and O. road, has made a proposition to Lexington to locate the car shops of his system at that point if the city will subscribe $63,000. It is probable the proposition will be accepted.—Exchange.

Maysville has given him much more than that to aid in building the M. and B. S. and he ought to return the favor by locating the shops here.

THIS country's commerce with the nations of the world the past year amounted to the vast sum of over one billion five hundred million dollars, and of all this extensive traffic foreign vessels carried over one billion two hundred dollars of it. Commenting on this the Louisville Times says that is what "protection" has done for American shipping. When we had a revenue tariff the bulk of our commerce was carried in American bottoms.

It is doubtful whether any State in the union was the scene of more corruption and bribery at the polls at the late election than West Virginia. The matter is to be investigated to some extent, as Judge Fleming, Democrat candidate for Governor, has filed notice of contest on General Goff. The Judge relies solely on the rejection of fraudulent and illegal votes, the number being placed at 1,042 in his notice. It is said three times that number were cast.

SAYS the Portsmouth Blade: "Hon. Thomas H. Paynter, of Greenup, the Congressman elect in the Ninth Kentucky District, has a pin of more than ordinary value. It was once the property of his uncle, and is a relic of the gold fever days of 1850. Among the miners who in those days were seeking fortune in that section, was Isaac Parr, now living in the enjoyment of a quite old age at his elegant home at Letart, Ohio. He employed a number of hands, and used as checks coin on which there was no discount, but yet had never received the Government's stamp. It was of gold, virgin yellow in color, twenty-two carats fine, and bore the legend: 'I Parr 5 Dollars.' It is one of those rare coins, mounted as a pin, which Mr. Paynter has, and which next to his commission as Congressman, he values most highly."

Stock, Field and Farm.

The Carlisle Mercury is taking a decided interest in the move to organize tobacco-growers' associations and prevent overcropping in the future.

An ordinance has been passed in New York City, which requires that the sale of all vegetables, fruits and berries shall hereafter be by weight instead of measurement, and that the weight and contents of every package shall be legibly marked thereon.

Farmers are complaining at the present low prices prevailing for cattle, hemp and tobacco. They claim there is no money in either at the present prices, and swear that the tobacco and hemp crop must be curtailed for the coming year. Congress will not be likely to molest either the tobacco or hemp tax, but notwithstanding, the prices for these staples are ruling ruinously low.—Lexington Press.

The potato crop of the United States for 1888 is placed at 216,000,000 bushels, the largest ever grown, and an increase of 82,000,000 bushels over the crop of 1887, and of 8,000,000 bushels over the large crop of 1883. There will be a decrease in the import of potatoes during the coming months as compared with the import in the early part of 1888, which for last March amounted to 1,645,000 bushels as against 56,700 for March, 1887.

THE YEAR'S BUSINESS.

What Some of the Maysville Merchants Say About Their Trade for '88.

The merchants of this city report a very satisfactory trade for the year just closed. Most of them have done much better, in fact, than during the previous year, and their business for 1887 was very gratifying.

THE BULLETIN has interviewed a number of them on the subject, and their replies furnish interesting reading just at this time. The substance is here given:

Miner & Bro., the old and well-known boot and shoe firm, said: "Our trade the past year was very satisfactory. It shows a very healthy increase over our 1887 business, and a number of preceding years."

A. J. McDougle, stationer and bookseller: "My business was much heavier than in 1887, and quite satisfactory, proving clearly to my mind that old Maysville is on the up grade as a business point."

McClanahan & Shea, dealers in stoves, grates and tin roofing, when asked about their trade the past year, replied: "Splendid. Part of last season we had to turn off work, as we had more than we could do in the line of tin roofing."

One of the oldest and widest known firms in the city is that of Owens & Barkley, dealers in hardware. "We have no right to complain," said Colonel Owens, the senior member of the firm. "Our business was considerably better than in 1887. We consider the outlook for 1888 very good."

Bierbower & Co., dealers in stoves, grates, mantels and tin and stoneware, report the year 1888 "the best they ever had."

M. B. McKrell, the Sutton street dry goods merchant: "My business in 1888 was larger than ever before."

W. L. Thomas & Bro., successors to Allen, Thomas & Co., dealers in china, glass and queensware, stoves, mantels and grates: "The business of this house shows handsome increase for the year 1888 over that of 1887."

J. Ballenger, the jeweler: "I have not yet finished closing year's business, but with some months showing an increase over corresponding ones in 1887, and others a decrease, I believe it will foot up about the same."

Browning & Co., dealers in dry goods: "Our business the past year shows an increase over that of 1887."

Mr. Wm. H. Cox, of the firm of George Cox & Son, dealers in dry goods: "I do not say it boastfully, but our trade the past year was much better than the year before. Up to December 1st we had sold as many goods as we did during the entire year in 1887. This was done, too, without any special effort on our part."

Mrs. James H. Rogers has gone to Wichita to see her sister, Mrs. Mollie Gordon. The friends of Mrs. Gordon will regret to learn that she has been seriously ill for some time.

SERVICES at the Central Presbyterian Church this evening at 7 o'clock, Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock and Sunday morning and evening at the usual hours. Communion service after morning sermon Sunday. All cordially invited. Rev. Russell Cecil, pastor.

NONE of the bodies of the six negroes drowned at Ripley the other night have yet been discovered. The John-boat in which the unfortunate attempted to cross the river was brought up from near Augusta by the St. Lawrence this morning and turned over to the owner. It is a very frail craft, about twelve feet long, three feet wide and very shallow. Six grown people would weight it down to the water's edge almost, and the waves of a steamer would inevitably swamp it when so loaded.

THE Dover News says: "Rev. Andrew Jackson will move to Maysville next week. He preached his farewell sermon at the Baptist Church last Sunday. Mr. Jackson and his wife have been faithful workers in the church during their residence here, and have done much towards building up the membership. They will be greatly missed by their many friends, and especially by Mr. Jackson's late charge. It is not yet known whom the Bracken Association will send here to take Mr. Jackson's place."

JACK LOCKHART was arrested at Dover a few days since and taken to Waverly, O., to answer a charge of bigamy. He has been living at Dover the past year with a woman he claimed to be his wife. They had one child, an infant. The Dover News says: "The family of three lived in the greatest poverty, the man doing odd jobs for the neighbors, hardly making enough to keep the family alive. No one knew where they came from, and nothing was ever learned of their past history. The developments, however, show that Lockhart was an escaped criminal and a bigamist, the woman he lived with being an illegal wife."

THROUGH TRAINS MONDAY.

The Maysville and Big Sandy Turned Over by the Contractors and to be Opened for Traffic.

The Cincinnati papers state that Mr. I. G. Rawl, Master of Transportation, and other officials of the Maysville and Big Sandy had a conference with President Ingalls, of the C. and O., Wednesday, and that the new road was turned over by the contractors. Mr. Ingalls and Superintendent H. E. Huntington came up to Maysville yesterday on official business, returning in the afternoon.

From a reliable source it is learned that through trains will be run on and after next Monday, on which date the road will be opened for general traffic. The time card has not been received here yet, but trains will arrive and depart about as follows:

Slavery in Africa.

What influences can humanity and civilization—now, happily, fully alive to the foul wrong from which a great dependent people is suffering—what influences can they bring to bear in mitigation of this crying tyranny? The merchant would probably be ready to answer: "Open up trade with these suffering and benighted peoples and civilization will follow in its track." The missionary would say: "Multiply mission stations."

The diplomat and the politician's suggestion is: "Annexation of territory and extension of the spheres of influence of the dominant races." The answer of the great Catholic ecclesiastic, Cardinal Lavigerie, is the simplest and boldest of any, and appeals most eloquently to the manhood and chivalry of the Christian world. "Begin new crusade," says his eminence, "and if necessary roll back the tide of Arab raiding and wrong doing by force and slash of arms." Probably the true remedy is to be found not in any one of these suggestions, but in all of them combined. Merchants and manufacturers are among the most sanguine of mankind, yet they might guess that settled trade was impossible with savages, who have few wants but for personal safety and the gratification of the lower senses—who skulk naked, trembling and hungry in the forest depths from hostile neighboring tribes and the roving bands of Arab marauders. Nothing great will be done in the trade with the great mass of negro Africans till the yoke of this tyranny is lifted from their necks; till they are given security to increase and multiply and till the land; till, as in the case of every nation since the records of civilization have been kept, the simple savage race is crossed with races more advanced than itself; till an African human being is reared of mixed blood, with larger wants and wider aspirations, and till the man of this mingled race is capable of comprehending and performing the larger functions of a more complex civil and moral polity. Not until the generations have rolled on and the slow processes of racial evolution are accomplished can Africa cease to be savage Africa. It is not, perhaps, unfortunate that so great an end as the moral salvation of the people of a vast continent is not to be effected through any such ignoble means as mere commercial self-seeking and trade cupidity. If salvation comes to Africa it will be through nobler measures.

Barricade Their Homes and Fight for Their Rights,

BUT IN THE END THEY SURRENDER TO THE EVICTORS.

The People of the Catholic Portion of Ireland Very Indignant — Bloodshed Feared—European Capitalists Catching On to the Americans' Scheme of Forming Trusts—Foreign News.

LONDON, Jan. 4.—The eviction campaign on the Olphert estates, Falcarragh county, Donegal, commenced Wednesday afternoon. Operations had been delayed by the action of the peasants in breaking down the bridges, and in other ways impeding the march of troops and the police, 200 strong, forming the evicting army. The poor fellows worked hard and zealously, but the resources of the crowd of evictors finally prevailed, and the forces reached the doomed district exasperated by delay and hardships, and only too ready to take vengeance on the people. They did not do much harm, but it is doubtful whether the work will be completed without bloodshed.

An attack was made on the house of O'Donnell, a blacksmith. O'Donnell kept the evictors so busy that they were unable to move against and other of the tenants. The house had been prepared in a most ingenious fashion for defense. The doorways and lower windows had been built up and loopholes made on three sides. The garrison consisting of ten sturdy peasants, were provided with provisions for a week and with heaps of stones, pitchforks and similar weapons. A big crowd of peasants had assembled to see the fun, and among the spectators were Fathers McFadden and Stephens, both of whom have recently suffered imprisonment for the cause.

Amid a roar of defense from the spectators and the garrison the bailiffs and police commenced operations. The soldiers and part of the police surrounded the house with fixed bayonets. An attempt was made to make a hole in the gable but the besiegers were soon beaten back, many with broken heads, and for a full hour the defenders kept up a fierce fullsade of stones and other missiles, the spectators all the while cheering frantically.

The police and bailiffs returned the volleys of stones and some of the former more than once were prevented from firing their rifles only by orders of the magistrates. The bailiffs resorted to various expedients to escape the fusillade. A cart was pushed against the house but was quickly rendered untenable, and shields were improvised out of mattresses nailed to poles.

At length a magistrate ordered the police to take the house by assault. Sergeant McComb gallantly led the forlorn hope and mounted a ladder leading to the front window. He was thrust back with pitchforks and received wounds in the face and legs and was finally dashed to the ground by a well directed stone.

This was too much for the magistrate. The sacred blood of a policeman had been shed. The riot act was read in a twinkling, and the troops were ordered to fire. The soldiers did not relish the order. Many of them had with difficulty repressed an inclination to cheer the gallant little band fighting for their homes. They therefore loaded very slowly, and the pause was taken advantage of by Father Stephens to advise the defenders that, having vindicated their manhood and given the greatest amount of trouble to the evictors, they might now very well yield to the superior force.

The priest's advice was taken without question, and his friends descended by means of the ladder, and surrendered themselves amid the enthusiastic cheers of the onlookers.

They will, of course, be sent to prison, but they have the comfort of knowing that if the rate of one eviction daily it will take months to complete them, and that long before then public opinion in England will compel the government to withdraw the forces of the crown from assisting in the scandalous work of collecting impossible rents for an unjust and tyrannical landlord.

The resumption of the evictions in the Gwendal district, in County Donegal, with increased brutality on the part of the bailiffs and police, has together with the outrageous sentences imposed upon Messrs. Harrington and Finucane, aroused the people of the Catholic portion of Ireland to intense indignation which promises in some localities to lead to bloodshed. Never in the history of evictions for non-payment of rent has the resistance of the Irish tenants to the enforcement of the writs issued against them under the law been so determined as now, and never have the vindictiveness of the landlords and the zeal of the process servers, bailiffs and police been so conspicuously manifest.

That the government has resolved upon a wider and more rigid application of the coercion act than heretofore, it is everywhere apparent, and the amount of suffering in Ireland during the next few months must be largely increased. With a determination born of the desperation which this obvious fact, and the consequent hopeless outlook, the peasantry are resorting to every possible means to thwart the plans of their enemies, as the scenes enacted in County Donegal Wednesday abundantly attest, and the fight will be a long and bitter one.

Following America's Example.

LONDON, Jan. 4.—Formation of a silk syndicate by the leading silk manufacturers and dealers of Lyons and London shows the rapidity with which the American system of trusts is commanding itself to the capitals of Europe. With regard to this new trust it is said its formation was instigated by the American handers of "ts who contemplate the organization of a similar syndicate for the control of the silk trade. This view is generally considered to be the correct one, in the light of negotiations which have been in progress for some time among the manufacturers of and dealers in that fabric in France, England and America, for the purpose of increasing their profits and removing competition.

Cheap Ocean Postage.

LONDON, Jan. 4.—Mr. John Henniker Houston, member of parliament, has accepted an invitation to visit the United States early this year. He expects while there to have the honor of appearing before congress in advocacy of ocean penny postage, and much of the time of his visit will be devoted to the furthering of cheap postage.
